

Excerpt from “Top 5 NFT Artists You Should Know & Invest In” (April Edition) by Ebony C. – Digital Marketer, Copywriter, & Cofounder of The Artist Collective

“Are you prepared to experience fine art, abstract masterpieces, deep storylines, and the 3D art genius that the top 5 NFT artists featured in this month’s edition bring to the table?”

This month our artists hail from New York, Puerto Rico, Indonesia, India, and Florida. Be sure to take in the vast differences in artistic styles while appreciating the most important aspect – the story and inspiration behind the NFT art. All of the artists featured this month have given more than one layer of depth to their pieces – making each piece a true one-of-a-kind. Now, let’s admire some art.

Leila Pinto – Digital Art & Fine Art Paintings

<https://foundation.app/@leilapinto>

Leila Pinto works at a top Wall Street firm and her art is influenced by the unique experience of her financial career, traveling internationally, and a combination of her inherent artistic sensibility and interpretations of daily emotion. Leila’s Fine Art Paintings pull you into oceans of perfectly blended colors that send collectors on a visual dive into exotic waters. Her digital art delivers bold pastel colors, detailed backgrounds with intense depth, and the beauty of nature in its most intricate form.

Leila Pinto’s work is widely exhibited, collected, and published. Her paintings have been featured on the Morgan Stanley signage in Times Square, at The Oculus World Trade Center, and at several other venues and exhibitions, including Artsy.net, and throughout the Metaverse. Her work has been featured in several publications – including Artsy Shark Magazine and Art and Wine Magazine.

NFT collectors move quickly to Leila Pinto’s collection on Foundation because her artwork typically sells out within days of the NFT drop!”
